higher, Mcdioxi A. Athorities, buth in Europe and the United States, and presented in their practic.

The experience of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Imp-rities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicated its necessity in almost every conceivable case. Innxoisus in all maladies, in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dysepses, Constipation, Diarrheas, Physepses, Constipation, Provers, Primples on the Face, &c.

In cases of Leneral Debility, whether the result of acute disease or ofthe continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nur written attestation would render credible. Invalids solong hed ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suudenly reappeared in the busy world as if just returned from protacted travel in a cistant land.—Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferens, emaciated vicinus of apparent marasmus, sanguineous exhaustion, critical changes, and that complication of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to ait and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In Nervous Affections of all kinds, and no name.

In Nervous Affections of all kinds, and for reasons familiar to medical mon, the operation of this preparation of iron must meessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overheating; and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness, without ever being a gamric purgative, or indicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them.

In Dyseppsia, innumerable as are its causes, a single box of these Chalybeate Fills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendant Costiveness.

In unchecked Diarrhæn, even when advanced to Dysentery, confirmed, emaciating, and apparently malignant, the effects any been equally decisive and assonishing. In the local pains, loss official and asonishing. In the local pains, loss official and asonishing, which generally indicate Incrpient Consumption, this remedy has aliayed the o name. parations of iodine, without any of their well known liabilities. The attention of females cannot be too confidently invited to this remedy and restorative, in the cases peculiarly affecting them. In Rheumatism, both chronic and in flammatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been marriably well report ed, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swellings and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In Intermittent Pevers, it must neces sarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and the progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefulness.

DESTRUCTION OF THE SHIP ANN ALEXANDER BY A WHALE.

(Constuded.)

While Captain Deblois was waiting on deck for the re-appearance of the whale, he suddenly saw it approaching at the rate of lifteen notes an nour. In an instant the determined monster struck the ship with tremendous violence, shaklog her from stem to stern. She quivered under the violence of the shous as if she had struck upon a rock. Captain Deblois immediately descended, into the lorscastle, and tuere, to his horror, discovered that the whale had strick the ship about two lest from the keel, abreast the foremast, knocking a great note entirely through her bottom, through which the water roared and rushed in impetuously. Springing to the deck, he ordered the mute to cut away the anchors and get the capies oversoard to keep the ship from sinking. In doing this, the mate succeeded in reneving only one amenor and getting one cable clear, the other having been matwas then sinking very rapidly. The captain went into the cabin, where he found three feet of water; he, however, succeeded in proturing a curonométer, sextant, and chart. Leading the deck, to get water and provisions, as the sain was keeping over. He again descended was keeping over. He again descended to the cabin, but the water was rusning m so rapidly that he could produce He then came upon -acek, ordered all hands into the poats, and was the last to leave the snip, which he did by throwing himself into the sea, and swimming to the hearest bout. The ship was on her beam-ends, her topgallant-yards under water. They then ushed off some distance from the ship, expecting her to sink in a very short time. Upon an examination of the stores they had been able to save, it was discovered that they had only twelve quarts of water, and not a mouthful of provisions of any kind. The boats conained eleven men each, were leaky, and night coming on, they were obtiged to ban them an night, to keep them from sinking.

Next day, at daylight, they returned to the ship, no one during to venture on board but the captain, their intention being to cut away the masts, and fearful that the moment the masts were out away the ship would go down. With a single hatenet the cuptain went on board, and cut away the mast, when the snip righted. The bouts then came up, and the men, by the sole aid of spaces, away the chain-cable from around the foremast, which got the ship nearly on her keel. The men then tied ropes around their bodies, got into the sea, and cut holes through the decks to get provisions. They could procure nothing but about live gallons of vinegar and twenty pounds of wet bread. Inc ship threatened to sink, and they deemed it impredent to remain by her longer; so they set sail in her boats, and left her. They were then in a dreadful state of inxiety, as it was doubtful whether they should be able to reach land or see any vessel. With taint hopes of being rescued, they directed their course ortherly, and on the 22d of August, at about 5 o'clock. P. M., they had the indescribable joy of discerning a ship in the distance. They made a signal, and were soon answered, and in a suort true they were reacted by the good susp Nantucket of Nantucket, Mussac usetts, Captain Gibbs, who took toem all on board clothed and fed them, and extended to them in every way the greatest possible hospitality.

On the succeeding day, Captain Gibbs went to the wreck of the ill-fated Ann Atexander, for the purpose of trying to procure something from her, but as the sea was rough, and the attempt considered dangerous, he abandoned the project. The Nuntucket then set sail for Luita, where she arrived on the 15th of September, and where she landed Uaptain Deplois and his men. Captain Deblois was kindly and hospitably received and entertained at Fritz by Captain Bathurst, an English georieman residing there, and aunisquently took

Whale Leather Squeezing oil out of atone coal was a thing to be thought of as acone coat was a roung to be thought of as a miracle that might some day convert the heathen; but to get shoe leather from the skin of a whale is an reasonable a probability that one is amazed it should not have billy that one is amazed it should not have been long a ago, altempted. A Frenchman has obtained a patent for whale leather and remarkedly plant stuff it is. The skin is so thick that, after removing the inner portion, which is spongy, the remainder is split to make it of the usual shoe thickness. It is remarkedly tough, but as soft as buckshin, and it repels water well. The Yankee boot is most miserable; the leather is spoiled by had tanning and worse working up. This makes an unfair relation between supply and consumption which it will need all the wheles of the ocean to equalize. The discovery comes at ocean to equalize. The discovery comes at a time when land leather is growing alarmattime when tand seather is growing autimingly scarce; and we behold in it a beautiful provision of Providence, only excelled by the discovery of coal oil at a juncture still more critical in the listory of human progress. 77

The Island of Cuba, in spite of Spanish misrule, says The London American, is one of the most prosperious postious of the earth. Her present population is estimated at 1,130,000, of which nearly 550,000 are white inhabitants, 180,000 free colored, 400,000 slaves, and 38,000 Asiatics and Indians. The sugar estates are immensely productive. Twenty-three of the principal plantations, comprising about 100,000 acres of land and 10,175 slaves, are valued at £3,000,000. These twenty-three ostates produced, in 1859, 235,000 boxes, the worth of which was £4 each box, making in all £940,000. There are 16,000 sugar plantations in Cuba, the exported products of which amounted to about £10,000 per of which amounted to about £10,000 per
